Dr Jan Telensky, Engineering Real Results Ltd,
Hamilton House, 80-88 Collingdon Street, Luton, LU1 1RX.

Dr Telensky, who is not only a valued member of my constituency, is heavily involved through his company with the training of students, especially for plumbing and electrical trades within the construction industry.

The company has a City & Guilds and BPEC approved NVQ Level 2 Plumbing live on-site assessment qualification through their associated training provider, Engineering Real Results Ltd, and this allows the students to fulfil the mandatory practical on-site experience and also have their final assessment on site to enable them to complete the requisite qualification.

The company has had great success with carrying out residential conversions, at times with up to 50 students working, and this has led to the majority of students now being in full-time employment ; a great achievement for students and those who have carried out the training.

The company puts its own money into finding sites to develop enabling them to provide in-site training, and qualification, for more students and is always open to suggestions, from companies, local authorities, and property owners who would wish conversions to be carried out

I do feel this is a very innovative approach to providing young people with the necessary training, and obviously would support all their endeavours to expand their approach to the very valuable manner in which they can help young people into fulfilling full-time employment.
